Do I have a mental health difficulty?

We all have mental health, like we all have physical health. Both change throughout our lives. Just like our bodies, our minds can become unwell. At times we can all struggle and our mental health is not as good as it could be.

Some of the problems that you or those around you may notice are:

- Feeling low
- Worried a lot
- Troubling sleep or staying awake
- Frequently angry or irritated
- Hyper
- Problems eating
- Can’t concentrate or think clearly
- Avoiding people or situations
- Confused
- Intrusive or upsetting thoughts
- Can’t be bothered
- Forgetful
- Can’t stop
- Taking unprescribed drugs
- Drinking alcohol to cope

Are any of these long lasting, showing no sign of improvement or severe?

There are things that you can do to improve your health and wellbeing and you will find information in this booklet about this.

If you or someone you know is experiencing one or several of the above and this has been going on for some time and not improving or these feelings, thoughts or behaviours are severe, it could be that you or they may need some help to feel better.

Don’t panic, there is help out there. This guide covers where you can go and what help and support is out there in the York area.
I think I need help. What can I do?

One in four of us will have a mental health problem of some kind during our life. The first few steps can be very hard, but you don’t have to do it on your own.

Realise you are not alone and you can be helped!
There are a whole range of people and organisations that can help you to help yourself.

Talk to someone you trust — it really can help!
This could be your partner, a family or a good friend. If this is not possible for you there are other people who can give you support and advice.

National organisations’ are listed along with local places where you will find a sympathetic ear. Turn to the contents page for a quick answer.

Should I go and see my GP?
Our mental health is constantly changing in response to everything around us, our ability to respond to stressful situations, our physical health and the support networks we have to help us stay well and balanced.

Most of the time we are able to manage episodes of poor mental health ourselves without help from a doctor but when they last a long time or get worse it may indicate a more serious issue that needs specialist help.

All GPs and medical practices in York have been trained to offer general support to people experiencing mental ill-health.

This can include things like:
- Medication
- Counselling
- Local support
- Referral to Improving Access for Psychological Therapy (IAPT)
- Information
- A member of staff in the GP practice who works specifically with mental health issues
- Referral to specialist help through a Single Point of Access. Sometimes this is called secondary care

Will I have to be seen by a psychiatrist or go into hospital?
If your GP can’t help you immediately or they feel you need some extra help your GP can refer you to see a specialist.

The specialist will be able to assess you and help you think about the best course of action. Sometimes this will be a psychiatrist, sometimes a psychologist, counsellor or other trained professional. In NHS language this is known as ‘Secondary Care’.

From 1st April 2014 many people now have a right in law to choose who their Secondary Care provider is. The standard option will usually be the local NHS service but others are available within the private and voluntary sector in York.

What if I don’t want the help my doctor suggests. Can I refuse?
For the vast majority of people treatment is optional and like any clinical intervention you have the right to refuse treatment if you do not believe it is in your best interests.

The only time you can be forced to undertake treatment is if you are assessed by a qualified professional as being so unwell that you are a danger to yourself or other people.
In a situation like this you will be ‘sectioned’ under the Mental Health Act and a named doctor will be able to make decisions about your medication and where you should be cared for. Everybody who is detained under the Mental Health Act has the right to appeal against this decision using the free advocacy support. In York this service is provided by Cloverleaf advocacy. ➔See p25

When will I begin to feel better?
Everyone is unique, with different problems, personalities, and life experience. Feeling better will vary in lengths of time, depending on circumstances, support and type of help received. Although it doesn't always feel like it, remember you can be helped and you will improve.

If you are receiving help or treatment from your GP or another professional, talk with them about how long these feelings may last.

What do I do if I don’t feel better or I feel worse?
If you haven't seen your GP yet go and see them and tell them how you are feeling. If you are seeing your GP already or another professional tell them your concerns.

If the feelings are severe, intense or even suicidal, speak to someone now! Contact the Samaritans, your GP or go to A and E. It is important to seek help!

Leeds and York Partnership NHS Foundation Trust (LYPFT)
_bootoom Park Hospital, Bootham, York, Yorkshire, YO30 7BY
☎ 0113 305 5000
@ communications.lypft@nhs.net
🌐 www.leedspft.nhs.uk

LYPFT provides mental health and learning disability services in York, Selby, Tadcaster and Easingwold.

LYPFT is a specialist provider of acute inpatient mental health services, community mental health services, learning disability services and CAMHS (Child and Adolescent Mental Health Services). Referrals from GP practices, mental health professionals and voluntary mental health organisations.

For adults your GP will discuss with you if they think services provided by LYPFT will help you. They then make a referral to what is known as The Spa. This is a single point of access to all adult NHS services in the York area. The Spa is a first stage of assessment designed to ensure that you get access to the most appropriate help.

It may be appropriate after your GP has sent a referral in to the SPA to contact you. They will discuss with you what you need and then you may be placed on a care and treatment plan (often called a pathway).

There are several levels of services that LYPFT provide. You may be referred into the Crisis and Access Service which includes: Crisis Assessment which helps define if an admission to hospital needs to be considered, or you may be supported on Home Based Treatment, which is seen as an alternative to admission.

Alternatively you may be referred to one of the two Locality Teams which cover South and West York and North and East York.

You may be seen by a Community Psychiatric Nurse, Support Worker, Occupational Therapist, Social Worker, Psychologist or a Psychotherapist. In certain cases you may need to be seen by a specialist team which provide specific help and treatment for problems such as Eating Disorders.

It may be suggested that something called IAPTs would help. This is the Improving Access to Psychological Therapies which can help people to overcome stress, anxiety and depression to enjoy and participate in life again. This could take place over the telephone, in groups or face to face.

For children and young people there is a separate service just for you. This is called CAMHS (Child and Adolescent Mental Health Services). Referral for this service is directly from your GP.

If you have used LYPFT services previously and you feel that you need further help you can re-enter by calling the Single Point of Access (SPA):
☎ 01904 610 700 or talk to your GP.
I am desperate! What should I do?

There are people who can help you. You are only one phone call away from help! The Samaritans and Papyrus have 24 hour telephone helplines Alternatively you can always contact your GP or go to A&E at your nearest hospital.

I am unhappy with my GP. What can I do?

Some people may not feel able to talk to their doctor about mental health problems or they may not have been happy with their doctor’s response. There are things you can do.

If you are registered with a practice which has more than one GP you can make an appointment with another one. Some practices have one or more doctors that have an interest or had further training in mental health. You can ask the reception team if this is the case in your surgery and make an appointment with them instead.

You have the right to change to another GP practice in your area (as long as it is accepting new patients) and you do not have to give a reason as to why. Once you are registered with another practice your medical records will be transferred to them.

Are you ready to talk to somebody?

Talking therapy is for anyone who’s going through a bad time or who has emotional problems they can’t sort out on their own.

Talking therapies can help all sorts of people in many different situations. You may be able to get talking therapy on the NHS but there is usually a waiting time. Talking therapy is widely available privately.

Why talking therapy may help

Sometimes it’s easier to talk to a stranger than to relatives or friends. During talking therapy, a trained therapist listens to you and helps you find your own answers to problems, without judging you.

The therapist will give you time to talk, cry, shout or just think. It’s an opportunity to look at your problems in a different way with someone who’ll respect and encourage your opinions and the decisions you make. Usually, you’ll talk one-to-one with the therapist. Sometimes, talking treatments are held in groups or in couples, such as relationship counselling.

Talking therapies can help if you have: depression, anxiety, an eating disorder, a phobia, an addiction. They’re often used if you’ve been diagnosed with a serious mental health condition, such as schizophrenia or bipolar disorder.

The types of therapy

Talking therapy is a broad term. It covers all the psychological therapies that involve a person talking to a therapist about their problems.

Although there are many different types of talking therapy, they all have a similar aim: to make you feel better. Some people say that talking therapies don’t make their problems go away, but they find it easier to cope with them and feel happier.

For some problems and conditions, one type of talking treatment may be better than another. Different talking treatments also suit different people. A particular one may be best for you and your situation.

To help you decide which one would be most suitable for you, talk to your GP about the types of talking therapy on offer (let them know if you prefer a particular one).

A brief explanation of various talking treatments and how they can help:

Counselling

Probably the best-known talking therapy and the one most readily available at your GP surgery. On the NHS it usually consists of 6 to 12 sessions, each an hour long. You talk in confidence to a counsellor about how you feel about yourself and your situation. They support you and offer practical advice.

Counselling is ideal for people who are basically healthy but need help coping with a current crisis, such as: anger, relationship issues, bereavement, redundancy, infertility, the onset of a serious illness.
Cognitive Behavioural Therapy

CBT helps you think less negatively, so that instead of feeling hopeless and depressed, you cope better with and even start to enjoy the situations you face.

Available on the NHS, you set goals with your therapist and carry out tasks between sessions. A course typically involves around six to 15 sessions, which last about an hour each. There are also self-help books and computer courses which use the concepts of CBT to help you overcome common problems like depression.

Like counselling, CBT deals with current situations more than events in your past or childhood. In particular, CBT can help: depression, anxiety, panic attacks, phobias, obsessive compulsive disorder (OCD), post-traumatic stress disorder, some eating disorders especially bulimia.

Psychotherapy

Unlike counselling and CBT, psychotherapy involves talking more about your past to help you overcome problems you’re having in the present. It tends to last longer than CBT and counselling. Sessions are an hour long and can continue for a year or more.

There are different types of psychotherapy, but they all aim to help you understand more about yourself, improve your relationships and get more out of life. It can be especially useful in helping people with long-term or recurring problems to find the cause of their difficulties.

Family therapy

This may be offered when the whole family is in difficulty. A therapist (or pair of therapists) meets the whole family and explores the family’s views and relationships to understand the problems they are having.

It helps family members communicate better with each other. Sessions are between 45 minutes and an hour-and-a-half long, and usually take place several weeks apart.

Family therapy is useful for any family in which a child, young person or adult (a parent or a grandparent) has a serious problem that’s affecting the rest of the family. Many types of cases are seen by family therapists, including: child and adolescent behavioural problems; mental health conditions, illness and disability in the family; separation, divorce and step-family life; domestic violence; drug or alcohol addiction.

Couples therapy

Can help when a relationship is in crisis (after an affair, for example). Both partners talk in confidence to a counsellor to explore what has gone wrong in the relationship and how to change things for the better. It can help couples learn more about each other’s needs and communicate better. Ideally, both partners should attend the weekly hour-long sessions, but they can still help if just one person attends.

Group therapy

In group therapy, up to around 12 people meet, together with a therapist. It’s a useful way for people who share a common problem to get support and advice from each other. It can help you realise you’re not alone in your experiences, which is itself beneficial. Some people prefer to be part of a group or find that it suits them better than individual therapy.

Advice for family and friends

Many carers struggle to get the right information at the right time and not all professionals they come in contact with know how to help them find support.

They also find that information is not always up to date and available from one source. Many carers need information and a conversation to help them start to access the support they need.

York Carers Centre and City of York Council have developed a 3 step checklist to help carers, and people who come into contact with carers at work, know where to start.

The ‘Start here’ checklist is available online at www.yorkcarercarerscentre.co.uk and is also available as a factsheet.

What if someone I know with mental health problems doesn’t want any help?

If you have concerns that somebody is unwell and not getting the help they need there are agencies who can offer advice and practical help.

- NHS 111
- City of York Council Assessment Team: 01904 555111 or the Emergency Duty Team 0845 034 9417 if you need to contact them out of hours.

We all manage our mental health in different ways and we need to be wary of judging others by our own standards when looking at the way they choose to stay well.

Some people experiencing mental ill-health may not be aware of how poorly they are becoming and need somebody to help them see the difficulties they are facing. This might be a difficult conversation but often hearing the concerns of a trusted friend or family member might be all that is needed to encourage somebody to ask for the help they need to start getting better.

If you feel somebody is at serious risk of harm you should call 999 and report your concerns.

The Accident and Emergency Department has access to 24 hour psychiatric support enabling them to arrange speedy assessments for individuals who are at immediate risk of harm.

“We all manage our mental health in different ways and we need to be wary of judging others by our own standards when looking at the way they choose to stay well.”

How can I help myself?

York Mind recommends the following:

- It is important to acknowledge that you have a problem and ask for help
- Exercise, such as walking, releases chemicals in the brain, which improve our mood
- A well balanced diet, rich in fruit and vegetables, can help improve a person's mental state
- www.nhs.uk/change4life
- Books on Prescription is a scheme which enables GPs and other health professionals to ‘prescribe’ self-help books that may help with a range of mental health issues See p29
- Relaxation, involving deep breathing and tensing muscles, can be very useful in releasing the tension caused by stress
- Support/self-help groups can help you make new contacts, share information and learn coping strategies
- It is important to be active and have a routine. This can help you to manage your stress levels
- Sleep is very important to your mental health. There is more information on the following websites:
  - www.mind.org.uk - How to cope with sleep problems
  - www.mentalhealth.org.uk - Sleep Matters: The Impact Of Sleep On Health And Wellbeing
- Helping others, for example by volunteering, can help to improve our well being
- Doing something creative can be beneficial. Focusing on specific activities can help to distract you from your worries and improve your mental well-being. Creative activities can include art and craft groups, photography, cooking and creative writing

On days when you are not feeling good it can be hard to think of things which may help you to feel better. It is worth trying to do something which has helped previously but at such times it can be difficult to think what they are.

Having them written down so you can refer back to them can be a good idea. On a better day write down what helps you. This may feel daunting but you could maybe do this with the support of someone you trust such as a family member, friend or a health professional. Try to make a personal plan i.e.

"When I feel / have felt .......... doing / talking to / thinking .......... helps etc."

York Mind recommends the following:

When you are feeling bad it is important to be kind to yourself. One way to look at things is to think ‘How would I treat a friend who was in a similar situation?’

You can:

- Take small, manageable steps. For example, go for a short walk
- Accept that you have a mental health problem. You deserve to feel better
- Practising mindfulness is a way of treating yourself with kindness. You can learn to live in the moment and accept your thoughts
- Remember positive things that other people have said about you
- You can try positive self-talk. For example “I am going to have a good day”, “This is something that I am good at”, “I have achieved a lot today”
- Have some ‘me time’. This is time spent relaxing and focusing on your own needs. You could find a quiet place, such as a garden or park, to chill out and relax
I am recovering. How do I keep well?

- Keep active
- Keep in contact – avoid isolation
- Keep a record – write down what has helped
- Keep up with self help
- Know when to seek help – discuss with family/friends/professionals
- Work unpaid and paid
- Reflecting on what may have caused episode.

York Mind recommends
- Develop a support network – people, friends you can contact when you need support
- Use support/peer support/self-help groups – meet and share with others who have had similar experiences
- A healthy lifestyle can help to keep you well. Diet and exercise are particularly important.
- Relaxation, yoga, meditation and mindfulness can all help to maintain well-being.

Men’s Advice Line
0808 801 0327
info@mensadviceLINE.org.uk
www.mensadviceLINE.org.uk

A confidential helpline providing practical advice, information and emotional support to any man experiencing domestic violence and abuse from a partner (or ex-partner). Their focus is to help increase the safety and reduce risk. They can help concerned friends and family.

Men’s Advice Line is open Mon-Fri 9am-5pm.

Call on freephone 0808 801 0327 (free from landlines and from mobiles using the O2, Orange, T Mobile, Three (3), Virgin, and Vodafone networks). Calls will not appear on BT landline phone bills. Voicemails and emails should get a response within two working days.

Activity and Social Groups

The thought of attending a group can be daunting and make you feel anxious. If you feel this way, you are not alone. Going that first time, especially if you are not used to being around other people can feel difficult. But it does get easier.

If you have any concerns it is worth phoning beforehand and explaining your worries and concerns. Some groups are only very small and can be a good first step to getting out and about again. You can always ask if you can bring a friend for support.

Arts and Crafts Group

Having Your Say and Advocacy

Cloverleaf Advocacy

01904 557644 or

01924 454875

www.cloverleaf-advocacy.co.uk

Provides both Independent Mental Health Advocacy and Independent Mental Capacity Advocacy for the York and North Yorkshire areas. They work with you as an equal partner to express your views, secure your rights, and get the help you need.

Independent Mental Health Advocacy (IMHA)

An IMHA (Independent Mental Health Advocate) is a specialist mental health advocate. The service is free and confidential and independent.

You qualify for an IMHA if you are:

- Detained under the Mental Health Act for assessment and treatment. (This does not include people detained on emergency short term sections, or detained in a place of safety).
- A Conditionally discharged restricted patient.
- On a Supervised Community Treatment Order or Guardianship Order.
- An Informal/voluntary patient who is discussing the possibility of serious treatment for a ‘mental disorder’ or ECT if the person is under 18 years of age).

Referrals can be made between Monday and Friday, 9am–5pm by calling the above numbers.

IMHA’s must respond to requests to visit an eligible person if the request comes from the person themselves, their nearest relative, the responsible clinician or an approved mental health professional, but anyone can request support on behalf of a patient with their agreement.

What can an IMHA do?

An IMHA can work alongside the person and:

- Help you to get and understand information about Mental Health legislation, any conditions and restrictions on you, and your rights.
- Help you to get information about and understand medical treatment (e.g. medication, therapies.)
- Support you to take part in care planning.
- Support you to apply to, prepare for and attend Hospital Managers Hearings and Mental Health Review Tribunals and to understand the decisions that are made.
- Discuss aftercare and access support and services.
- Raise concerns about their experiences of care and support.

Independent Mental Capacity Advocacy (IMCA)

Referrals can be made by a health or social care professional between Monday and Friday, 9am–5pm by phone.

An IMCA must be involved if the person is assessed as lacking capacity to make their own decision about the issue to be decided if:

The person has neither family members nor friends whom it is appropriate to consult on their behalf AND

The decision to be made is about serious medical treatment provided by the NHS OR

It is proposed that the person be moved into residential or nursing care for more than 8 weeks, or hospital for more than 28 days.

An IMCA may also be involved if there are safeguarding issues (regardless of the involvement of friends or family members) or in relation to care reviews.
What would an IMCA do:
- Support the person who lacks capacity and represent their views and interests to the decision maker (e.g. doctor or social worker).
- Obtain and evaluate information about the decision to be made.
- As far as possible, ascertain the person’s feelings, wishes, beliefs and values.
- Ascertain if there are alternative courses of action.
- Obtain a further medical opinion if necessary.

Provides a free, confidential and independent advocacy service across the City of York for individuals with mental ill-health. Supports people to have a strong voice, to speak up about matters that are important to them, have a say in decisions being made about them and promotes independence and choice.

Advocates listen to what you want and act on your behalf at all times. Advocates can support you in many ways including helping you to access advice, information and services, go to meetings and appointments with you, help you to write letters and challenge decisions that you do not agree with.

The services include:
- NHS Advocacy - if you have a complaint or concern about the care and treatment you have received from an NHS organisation or service.
- General Advocacy - if you are aged 18 and have an advocacy issue you need support with such as housing, complaints or accessing services.
- Self-Advocacy - if you or a group people want to self-advocate and speak up about issues that affect you we can support you to form your own self advocacy group.

Hearing Voices, Visions and Unusual Beliefs

Are these experiences normal?

You might be surprised to learn that 10 to 15% of people will hear a voice that someone else doesn’t hear at some point in their life and up to 40% of the population worry that people are against them.

For some people, these experiences are not particularly upsetting but for others these things can become a source of distress and they spend a lot of time worrying about them.

- The Workshop, Marygate Lane
  York Y030 7BJ
- 01904 632332
- contact@kyra.org.uk
- www.kyra.org.uk

Kyra-women's project is run by women for all women and welcomes you, whether you are in crisis or entering a new phase of your life. Provides non-judgemental support, information and services to empower women to make choices, become stronger and more independent. They help you build your self-confidence and achieve your aims, by enabling you to address and resolve issues in your life.

Formal specialist treatments don’t last indefinitely, they may only last for a few months. Aftercare is vital to long-term success. Support groups can be valuable in preventing relapse in behaviour for some.

Kyra provides this support through encouragement, companionship, and giving a sense of belonging. It is important to know that others are experiencing the same thoughts and feelings. To know that someone else is making it through the struggle gives power to others. Kyra encourages people to talk about their feelings and doubts, and together work to overcome them.
Supports people who live in the community and suffer from mental ill health by offering individual support packages and group support.

Placing the service user at the heart of their recovery journey, they have:

Steps-Mentoring is a community based support service for people who suffer from mental ill health. Enabling the individual to gain confidence and skills to achieve individual goals, hopes and dreams.

Designed around your individual needs it could be that you may want to: access volunteering, a course, develop specific skills, improve self confidence/self-esteem, join a social group, gain confidence to use public transport or learn about healthy eating and nutrition.

People who have done the Mentoring scheme have got into college courses, secured part time employment, started volunteering. You can refer yourself or be referred by a professional.

Steps-Drop in is an informal support group that encourages people to meet and enjoy social activity, reducing isolation.

The group meets together on Wednesday afternoons at the Priory Street Centre, York.

Volunteering with Mainstay can help in your continued recovery and sense of well-being. York Mind

Highcliffe House, Highcliffe Court, York YO30 6BP

01904 643364
office@yorkmind.org.uk
www.yorkmind.org.uk

An independent local mental health charity which aims to empower individuals experiencing mental ill health to start on the pathway to recovery. They believe that the condition should never define the person and consequently their recovery model encompasses every aspect of your life: personal, social and professional.

York Mind exists in order to promote recovery from mental ill-health, and to support emotional well-being and independent living.

This is achieved by having a two stage process:

- Entry level activities designed to help individuals make new contacts and friends. These activities include yoga, craft, gardening and photography, which have an extremely positive effect on the participants' wellbeing.
- Training activity designed to meet gaps in skills or education and provide qualifications that lead on to employment or mainstream learning.

Your Journey through York Mind

Their pathway approach has been very successful, preventing much of the dependency and institutionalisation that has been associated with mental health service providers in the past.

In order for the ‘Pathway’ to succeed there are also a number of specialist projects designed to help individuals overcome the crises or barriers they might encounter. These specialist projects are fundamental to the success of the pathway approach and include:-

- Befriending: provides emotional support to adults whose experience of mental health issues has left them feeling socially isolated or excluded.
- Peer support groups: led by volunteers and beneficiaries, aimed at giving people the opportunity to share experiences and offer coping strategies.
- Advocacy: giving vulnerable people the support they need to make and act upon informed choices and decisions about aspects of their lives they wish to change. An advocate can speak on your behalf and help to give you a voice. These include NHS Advocacy, General Advocacy and Self-Advocacy (see York Advocacy p26).
- Counselling: supporting people through a period of crisis or distress. As well as those diagnosed with a mental-health condition, we also work with people emotionally affected by situations such as redundancy, bereavement, bullying at work and general anxiety.
- Carers Counselling: this service offers emotional support for all carers in order to help them cope in their caring role.
- Mentoring: a bespoke mentoring programme where individuals can work both one to one with their assigned mentor and in small group settings, to identify personal goals and what action is necessary to best achieve these goals. The programme uses the nationally recognised self-assessment tool, the Recovery Star.

Veterans

Military Veterans and Service Leavers Peer Support Group

Three of your classmates will experience a mental health problem
You might be surprised to hear that. And, though this kind of experience is quite common, around three-quarters of young people with mental health problems worry about how their friends will react.

It doesn’t have to be this way.
Just being there for friends can make all the difference...
There are lots of simple things you can do – like sending a text to say hello, keeping people involved in what’s going on, or popping round for a cup of tea. Often it’s just about keeping up with the everyday things.

Signs that you might need help

You may notice that you just do not feel like yourself. More particular warning signals include:

- Noticing that your thoughts seem negative or gloomy
- Feeling low in energy or listless or start to lose interest in your life
- Feeling guilty or find it hard to stop worrying about things
- Starting to behave in an impulsive way, finding that you deliberately do things that you know will hurt you
Feeling unable to get any work done
Becoming irritable or short tempered
Experiencing a change in your interest in sex
Experiencing a change in your sleep pattern
Starting to have suicidal thoughts

If you are a student and you feel you are struggling with your mental health, you can go and see your GP. It is helpful to register with a practice in York if you have moved into the area from further afield.

All the higher education institutions in the York area provide help, advice and support for their students.

Askham Bryan College
www.askham-bryan.ac.uk/students/student-services

Student Support Services are based in the Main Building between the refectory and the common room.

They are open Monday to Friday from 8.30 am to 6.00 pm; between these times there is always someone there to help no matter how big or small your problem.

There may be occasions during your time at College when you experience problems, feel under pressure or just want to talk to someone. Counselling is for anyone who feels they may need it. The service at the College is confidential, free, discreet, relaxed, friendly and honest. The FE students in College have a Pastoral Tutor who are available for students to talk to regarding any issues they have with their programme of study or their general wellbeing.

If there is something bothering you at home or at College or you are worried about a fellow student you can contact the Safeguarding Team 24 hours a day on 07773 312617 or alternatively you can email them in confidence:
@ bsafe@askham-bryan.ac.uk

Nightline
01904 323735 or 3735 from a campus phone

Nightline is a confidential listening, information and sexual health supplies service, run by students for students.

Nightline is open from 8pm until 8am every night of the University of York term.

Based at York University it is also open to York St John Students.

Nightline is staffed by two trained volunteer students (one male and one female whenever possible) of the University of York or York St John University, and includes people from all disciplines and years. They are a listening service, not a counselling service, so won’t try to tell you what to do.

Although Nightline volunteers do not offer advice, they have a wide range of information, and can point you in the direction of someone who can. If you want to talk something over in a quiet and relaxed environment, or even if you just fancy a cup of tea or coffee and a chat, Nightline is here for you.

If you are calling from within York, Nightline can call you back on a landline number to save you money. However, they cannot call back mobile phones, or numbers outside the York area.

@ Email nightmail@yusu.org and receive a reply to your email within 48 hours. The service is completely confidential.

Through anonymisation software Nightline won’t even know your email address.

Drop In

The Nightline flat is open every night of the University of York term, from 8pm until 8am.

The University of York
www.york.ac.uk/students/support
www.york.ac.uk/students/support/health/opendoor

The University has a great deal of help available of all sorts, so if you find that you need help please ask.
The Open Door Team
A multi-professional team, which is part of Student Support Services and available to any registered student experiencing psychological or mental health difficulties.

You may prefer to find local NHS services, such as the University Health Centre or The Walk-In Centre, or voluntary sector organisations, for example York Mind. Whether you are concerned about yourself or concerned about someone else, they can help.

For initial appointments please visit: Student Support Services Hub, Market Square
01904 324140 or student-support@york.ac.uk

At your initial appointment they will discuss how we can help you best. This may involve:
• Up to 3 sessions short term help for specific issues
• Signposting to other services
• Short term Counselling
• Short term Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (CBT)
• Case management
• Workshops and groups

In addition, the Open Door Team provides self-help guidance and advice on improving well-being.

Other sources of support
You can also discuss concerns with your college welfare team or academic supervisor.

Their website has practical strategies you can use to help you cope in different circumstances and have links to other useful sites, covering: Homesickness, Depression, Anxiety, Transition to University, Sleep, Loss and bereavement, Domestic violence, Perfectionism, Eating Disorders.

They have a number of factsheets that you may find helpful: How to help a student in crisis flowchart, Living with housemates, Counselling at YSJ, Pregnancy
The Wellbeing Drop In
The Wellbeing Team offers a range of support to students, offering psychological help on weekdays all year round through the Wellbeing Drop In.

For most issues this is the quickest way to get the support you need. You can access this by going to the Student Advice Team Desk in Holgate Student Centre and asking for Wellbeing Drop In.

The Wellbeing Team offers psychological help for students on weekdays all year round.

The Wellbeing Drop In gives you the chance to talk to a professional and decide together what might be most helpful for you right now.

There are several options, including: counselling, welfare advice, mental health support, self-help materials and workshops, referral to outside agencies.

Sessions do get busy, so please try to be there as near to the start of the session as possible.

If you urgently want to talk to someone about your own mental health:
Go to the Student Advice Desk in Holgate Student Centre and ask to speak to the Wellbeing Adviser.

Alternatively, email The Student Advice Team: studentadvice@yorksj.ac.uk or call 01904 876477

York Student Help
www.yorkstudenthealth.org.uk

If you are studying at university or college in York, this website will be able to help you understand where to go when you are ill and give advice on looking after your general health.

Students Against Depression
www.studentsagainstdepression.org

A website offering advice, information, guidance and resources to those affected by low mood, depression and suicidal thinking.

Alongside clinically-validated information and resources it presents the experiences, strategies and advice of students themselves - after all, who are better placed to speak to their peers about how depression can be overcome.
Healthwatch York would like to thank all organisations who submitted information for the guide.

Special thanks is given to the following organisations who assisted us with some of the wordie bits of advice:

York Mind

The Retreat

York Carers Centre

Extra special thanks must also go to Louise Sangwine and John Brown, Healthwatch York volunteers and all-round lovely people. Their vision, determination, and hours of work made this possible.

Healthwatch York is committed to updating this booklet. If you know of anything we have missed, please let us know so we can include it in our next edition.

To help us keep up to date if your organisation or group is listed inside and your contact details or the help, support and services you offer change please let us know. We can then alter the information we give as soon as possible.
